As might be expected, Mr. Paul Muni is the outstanding figure in "Escadrille" at the Metropol Theatre, in a role to which he is particularly suited. He is cast as a warm-hearted individual who for some reason finds himself out of place among his fellow officers in the French Flying Corps. This humanity combined with his unpopularity at once makes him a target for the sympathy of the audience, and it is with this feeling that one follows him through the picture. The plot is a stock war story plot, with Mr. Louis Hayward as the eager young officer who is unknowingly in love with the wife of his best friend. Mr. Hayward's style in taking this part faintly resembles that of Mr. Herbert Marshall in similar roles. Miss Miriam Hopkins is charming enough to separate any two friends. The hectic, false hilarity of the war days is well recaptured, and the direction and "shooting" of the war scenes, including aerial combats, is good.—R.G.W.

As a play, "Night Must Fall" ran on the London and New York stages for over a year. Yet in the opinion of one member of the audience at the Nanking Theatre last night, the film version surpasses Emlyn Williams' original story; those seeing "Night Must Fall" for the first time on the screen will agree that as a "thriller" it stands in a class by itself. It is almost grisly, yet there is nothing gruesome in any of the scenes, unimaginative persons might even consider it dull—for the horror that pervades the story lies in the piling up of sequences, of one little scene after another, till the plot becomes almost terrifying in its slow but steady progress to the climax. Much of the film is a dialogue between Mr. Montgomery and Miss Russell. Mr. Montgomery gives the finest performance of a successful career, as the "baby-faced" murderer, and never again can one imagine him wholly as the young playboy he usually portrays. Miss Russell's performance comes up to his standard at times, though not always; this is not being disparaging in any way of her portrayal, for if all actors were of the same calibre, then there would be no pleasure in watching the characterizations of actors of Mr. Montgomery's calibre in this film. I nominate for the finest scene in the film, however, the one in which that grand old lady, Dame Whitty, slowly realises she is alone in the little country house—alone, miles from anywhere, and with a murdered woman's body exhumed from near the house only a short while before; it is a splendid piece of acting. Four members of the original London stage cast play their same roles in the film version, and the work of grafting on fresh players in the leading and more subordinate roles shows really fine directing on the part of Mr. Richard Thorpe. "Night Must Fall" may be somewhat heavy, it may be a trifle morbid, but even its detractors will admit that M.G.M. have scored another remarkable success with a film that is definitely out of the ordinary.—E.G.A.

It may safely be said that not once in a year—yes, perhaps once in half a decade—does such a picture as "Make Way for To-morrow" come to Shanghai. With its poignancy, sincerity and realism, it had yesterday's audiences at the Cathay Theatre continually off-balance; at one moment laughing at homely quips, at the next shedding a silent tear, of which no one might be ashamed. Without "stars" in the cinematic sense, the plot unfolded in its human relation aspects so graphically that all felt the principals were people one met in every day life instead of glamorous Hollywood artists, so distant from the theatre-goer. It goes without saying that each and every person who viewed this picture felt that he or she were a tangible part of the life portrayed—in short it struck home. The tale, simple as it is, has to do with an elderly couple, happily married for fifty years. The mortgage payments on their home cannot be met and husband and wife have to be separated, one living with a married son, another with a married daughter. How age and youth do not jibe and how the aspects of parent and child are different, form the motif of plot development. Miss Beulah Bondi, in playing the role of the 70-year old mother, delineates the character so really and sincerely that she surely will be a contender for honours this year—it was entirely unexpected of her. The veteran, Mr. Victor Moore, cannot be praised so highly, inasmuch as he is a polished actor of stage and screen, but he did not fail even in the finest of shadings. Then Miss Vina Delmar's sympathetic script, adding pathos where wanted, relieving tension with comedy and inducing the human equation in forceful blending, merits praise of no mean order.—F.L.T.

Hard laughter, alternately bitter and jubilant, combined with hard rights to the jaw, are the outstanding notes of the newspaper picture which opened last night at the Grand Theatre. The story begins with a rush and increases its pace to finish with a burst of speed. The intensity of the atmosphere fairly burns at times as competition rages for "scoops" on the big story which here centres in the romantic and often hairbrained activities of a beautiful $10,000,000 heiress. One of the main reasons the picture is such a successful comedy is the manner in which Miss Loretta Young steps out of her usual role. Gay and impulsive as a ruthless practical joker who gives the newshawks a merry chase, she has seldom done better. The rivalry between two hot-blooded men working on a big city paper is carried to laughable extremes by Mr. Tyrone Power and Mr. Don Ameche. Some of the most amusing scenes are in a small country gaol where, as a foolish combination of judge and warden, Mr. Slim Summerville holds sway. The cast is well fortified with popular character players, not the least of whom is Mr. Walter Catlett who is generally seen playing checkers on the floor with various types of drinks on the board. Those who like to be caught up and carried over a course of hot and absorbing incidents saturated with action and fast talk, should thoroughly enjoy this affair.—R.R.R.

TIENTSIN MARRIAGE LAW TANGLE

Florence Court Will Hear Extraordinary Case

Rome, July 1.

The Supreme Court of Cassation to-day will begin hearing of an unprecedented appeal arising from the action of a civil court in Florence which rejected an ecclesiastical annulment granted in Tientsin of the marriage of Signor Antonio Riva and Senora Emilia Corradi.

The appeal was based on the grounds that prior to their marriage in Florence in 1921 the two parties signed an agreement to prevent procreation after their marriage.

The Tientsin court granted the annulment on the grounds of "lack of accord." The Florence court refused to annul the civil marriage on the grounds that the marriage contract could not be broken or affected by "mental reservations."—United Press.

ROOSEVELT-DUPONT WEDDING

Promise to "Obey" Absent from Ceremony

Old Christian a Hundred, Del., June 30.

Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., second son of the President, was today married to Miss Ethel DuPont, heiress to the DuPont industrial millions.

Dr. Frederick Ashton, local Episcopal Minister, commenced the single-ring ritual, after which Mr. Endicott Peabody, head master of Groton School, who married the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, continued the ceremony. The word "obey" was not included in the ceremony.

No less than 340 guests were present at Christ Church for the ceremony. More than 1,400 attended a reception at the DuPont home, Owls' Nest.

Honeymoon plans of the couple were kept strictly secret.—United Press.

Manchoukuo Issues Grim Warning to Soviets

remain in effect until the Changchun authorities "consider the situation to have improved."

Reports reaching here from the scene of yesterday's fighting indicated that the concentration of Soviet war vessels in the Chike region was continuing. The number of Soviet gunboats gathered there was placed at forty.

Cavalry units were reported strewn along the shore of the river, between Poyarkovo and Konstantinovskoye, and are backed by "several" battalions of infantry. Clouds of dust believed to be raised by moving cavalry can be seen on the horizon, the reports added, while Soviet military songs could clearly be heard from Japanese observation points. Soviet reinforcements were also reported to be rushed to Pojarkovo, just across the north channel from Sennuha.—Domei.

Affair To Be "Localized"

Tokyo, July 1.

That the incident on the Amur River yesterday, when Japanese and Manchoukuo forces sank a Soviet gunboat, disabled another and forced a third to retire, will be "localized," is the decision reported to have been reached at a conference to-day between Prince Konoye, Mr. Koki Hirota, Gen. Gen Sugiyama, and Admiral Yonai.

In view of reports that Soviet forces captured a Japanese-Manchoukuo gunboat on June 29, yesterday's incident, which is alleged to have been provoked by the Russians, is regarded in the nature of a reprisal.

The Japanese Government, according to the spokesmen of the Foreign and War offices, will pursue an attitude of watchful waiting, "trusting the assurance given by M. Maxim Litvinov, the Soviet Foreign Commissar, that the islets of Bolshoi and Sennuha will be evacuated by the Soviet forces, will be honoured."

"Bitter disappointment and high indignation" is reported to have been expressed by the Manchoukuo authorities at the "deceit of the Soviets in firing on Japanese and Manchoukuo frontier guards."

"The Manchoukuo Government," it is stated, "is now obliged to take a firm and fair attitude to secure free navigation on her frontier rivers against any obstacles."—Reuter.

What Happens When You Lose Your Dog

This pup, an Airedale, strayed from his master's home some months ago, and was found in the country beyond Warren Road. His owner did not recognize him, until the pup responded to his voice. The pup is now happily restored to his old surroundings and is making up the weight he lost during his wanderings, on the verge of starvation. He was found by an official of the S.S.P.C.A.

DR. H. H. KUNG SEES SENATOR PITTMAN

Informative Talks on China and U.S. Relations

APPRECIATION OF R.F.C. SALES CREDITS

Washington, June 30.

After two meetings, the Chinese Minister of Finance, Dr. H. H. Kung, and Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, both to-day expressed the opinion that financial relations between China and the United States were highly satisfactory to both sides.

The conversations here are believed to have been largely informative without any plan for new action by the American government, regarded as unnecessary at present.

Senator Pittman told the United Press later that, "I believe Dr. Kung is perfectly satisfied with the silver situation. He intimated that he believed the price of silver should perhaps be higher compared with the price of gold. He indicated that he thought the price of silver rose too fast in the early stages of adjustment and I did not contradict him and did not point out that China and France would have done what we did in 1933.

"Anyway, China has shown marked progress recently. Her economic situation is reflected in her monetary situation and vice versa.

"So far as direct Sino-American monetary relations are concerned, the present pleasant situation is the result largely of the power of Congress which gave the Treasury Department the Silver Act.

"I have the impression that Dr. Kung seeks no new action from the United States. I have not heard of any intended new action. Conversations apparently have been generally informative and no action seems necessary at present.

Regrettable Lack

"Our present monetary strength is in large reserves of gold and silver. There has been much loose talk recently regarding our having excessive metallic reserves, but actually most other nations have too little, which is regrettable.

"With large silver and gold supplies, we are able at any time to purchase not only food and clothing, but particularly to negotiate with other Powers when the political situation is ripe for the adjustment of world currencies."

A large number of notables are to meet Dr. Kung to-night after a garden party at the Chinese Embassy. Dr. Kung also paid a courtesy call on Mr. Henry Morgenthau today at the Treasury Department.

From New York it is announced that the China Society of America, in conjunction with the American Asiatic Association and the American-Chinese Trade Council, would honour Dr. Kung at a dinner July 6, in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York. Guests will include Maj.-Gen. Frank McCoy, veteran of Asiatic service; Mr. W. Cameron Forbes, head of the American Economic Mission to the Far East in 1935, and local American and Chinese residents of prominence.

On July 6 at 7.15 p.m., Dr. Kung will deliver a nation-wide broadcast over the National Broadcasting System.—United Press.

Dr. Kung Expresses Thanks

Washington, July 1.

Dr. H. H. Kung, to-day issued a statement to the press expressing his appreciation in behalf of China for credit arrangements made with the Export-Import Bank to finance the purchase of locomotives for China.

He said China welcomes the act as further evidence of America's friendly co-operation with China. He said he admired the far-sighted policy of the bank in assisting American exporters to maintain and expand this nation's foreign trade.

Dr. Kung also expressed China's appreciation to the United States for lending to China such an important official as Mr. Warren L. Pierson, president of the Export-Import Bank, to gather first hand information regarding China's economic development and trade prospects.

According to Chinese reports, he said, Mr. Pierson travelled extensively in China and left a favourable impression everywhere. He said he was glad that Mr. Pierson also had been favourably impressed by China.

He recalled that China's transactions with the Export-Import Bank, such as in the case of the wheat and cotton loans proved beneficial to both countries. He said he was happy this present transaction marked the beginning of co-operation of the bank in the industrial development of China.—United Press.

CONSTABLE ARRESTS ARMED ROBBER

Shots Fired in Night Chase in Urga Road

After a chase in Urga Road during which two shots were exchanged, an armed robber was arrested by Chinese Police Constable 841, attached to Kashing Road Station at about 9 o'clock last night. No injuries were reported.

The man together with four others broke into an unnumbered house off Urga Road at 8.25 p.m. With two gunmen keeping a watch over the occupants, the others gathered loot valued at about $100.

A maid-servant secretly followed the gang as the latter decamped. In Urga Road, she met a Chinese policeman to whom she gave the information of the crime. The constable gave a chase, resulting in the arrest an armed gangster. Both the Constable and the gunman had fired a shot each before the arrest.

FREE STATE GOES TO POLLS

New Dail Will Give Last Word to Constitution

Dublin, July 1.

The Irish Free State went to the polls to-day not only to elect a new Dail, but also to give its verdict on the new Constitution, which provides for the country to be named Eire and replacement of the governor-general by a president.

Each elector was handed two voting papers for this purpose.

There are 274 candidates, including five women, for 138 seats.

Polling booths were opened at 9 o'clock this morning and will be kept open till the same time to-night.

The prevailing opinion is that Mr. Eamon de Valera, President of the Executive Council, will be returned to power, and, should this occur, it will follow almost automatically that the draft constitution will be accepted.

Counting of the votes starts tomorrow, and the final results are expected to be known on Saturday.—Reuter.

SIR JOHN MAFFEY LEAVES ON RETIREMENT

London, June 30.

Sir John Maffey retires to-morrow from the Office of the Permanent Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies, which he has held since November, 1933. As stated last April, when Sir John Maffey's impending retirement was announced, he is succeeded by Sir Arthur Charles Parkinson, an Assistant Under-Secretary of State.—Wireless through Reuter.
